Sometime ago H. W. Sage, member of Plymouth Church, appropriated by will a sum of money to piace a statue of Beecher in Prospect Park after his decease. The committee appointed by the officers of Plymouth Church last Sunday to take charge of the funeral made the necessary arrangements this morning.

Whether that power has been ex-ercised or not must be ascertained by an examination of the statute upon which the charge is based, namely, the Revised Stat-

Section 5519, which was the one most considered in the Court below, provides for the punishment of those who, in any State or territory, conspire for the purpose of depriving, either directly or indirectly, any persons or class or persons of the equal protection of the laws or of equal privileges and immunities under the laws. ANOTHER VETO.

The following message was received from the overnor: To the Senate of the State of California: I here-To the Schale of the Sade of Chigornal; I here-rith return without my approval Senate Bill o. 270, entitled "An Act to amend an Act en-tled an Act making an appropriation for the stablishment of a permanent fund for the pur-hase of jute, to be manufactured at the State rison at San Quentin, approved March 9, 1885, nd making an additional appropriation there-br."

nd making an additional appropriate or."

My objections to this bill are as follows:
First—It materially changes the purpose and requirements of the Act of 1885. That Act appropriated $40,000 as a revolving fund, to be used exclusively in payment for jute to be used in manufacturing at San Quentin, and required the return to the fund of the $40,000. This bill adds largely to the fund, and authorizes its use in payment of the cost of jute and expenses of manufacturing the same, without any limitation of the same, without any limitation of the same, without any limitation of the same of th in payment of the cost of jute and expenses of manufacturing the same, without any limitations. It further provides that "after the payment of the expenses to the support fund or other source, when money is drawn therefrom to pay the expenses of manufacturing jute, and after applying the profits to the support of the prison, the balance shall be returned to said revolving fund," It thus appears by this bill all other funds are to be kept fully satisfied and to get the benefit of any profit in the manufacture of jute before the Revolving Fund is to receive what belongs to it, even though this balance were less than the original fund. This is in striking contrast with the Act of 1885, which gives this fund the preference and requires it to be kept intact.

gives this fund the preference and requires it to be kept intact.

Second—The amount appropriated is excessive and too indefinite. By the Act of 18.5 the sum of $40,000 was appropriated, which is still in the revolving fund, or in jute purchased. This bill appropriates $70,000, which would make the revolving fund $110,000. But, in addition to this sum, the Prison Directors are authorized, for the same purpose, "to use so much money as may be necessary, from appropriations, for the use or support of the prison at San Quentin." I am advised that about $260,000 will be and is usually appropriated for such use or support. It is or support of the prison at San Quentin." I am advised that about $260,000 will be and is usually appropriated for such use or support. It is thus seen that the Directors can employ, in addition to the $110,000, an indefinite portion of this $260,000, for the purpose of paying the expenses of manufacturing jute goods. It is virtually p'acing over $370,000 in the hands of the Directors to invest in purchasing jute and manufacturing jute goods, and in protecting such investment. Again, from the clause above quoted, it seems that the Directors may even employ money from some "other source" besides these appropriations; that is, may borrow money, which money must be paid out of the proceeds of sales of the manufactured goods. This bill encourages investment beyond the requirements of the State Prison. It encourages speculation on behalf of the State, and in an article (and its manufacture) of very fluctuating value. It endangers not only the special revolving fund, but also the fund provided for the current expenses of the prison, and it commits the State to the establishment of a factory for the profit that may be made out of it, when, in my opinion, such work should be done only when necessary, and as collateral to the gov-

n my opinion, such work should be done only when necessary, and as collateral to the governmental duties of the State.

The provisions of the bill that the money transferred from the prison fund) "shall not be hade where such transfer will hinder or in nywise delay the purpose for which the fund epleted was created," and that money used hall be repaid into the fund depieted out of the roceeds of sale of jute, are not, in my opinion, afficient safeguards. fficient safeguards. Third—There is not the usual or sufficient suervision over the expenditures of a portion of the fund. It is evident from the clause first poye quoted that the expenditure of the profits above quoted that the expenditure of the profits and the payment of the expenses of manufacturing incurred, would be made by the Directors without any auditing or supervision by the Board of Examiners or other officers.

In conclusion I recommend that the sum asked for by the Prison Directors in their report, $30,000, be added to the revolving fund of 1885, and that all profits be placed to the credit of the general fund—the State having made ample provision in the general appropriation bill for all the necessary expenses of the prison.

James W. Marshall emigrated from New Jersey to Oregon in 1843, and from Oregon to California in 1844. Here he engaged in farming and stock-raising in a small way intil the breaking out of the Mexican War, when he

ENLISTED IN THE CALIFORNIA BATTALION Under Fremont, served faithfully through his term of enlistment, and received an honorable discharge. Returning home, Marshall found his horses and cattle gone -some strayed, others stolen—and in or-der to obtain means to buy other stock and put his place to rights, he applied to Captain Sutter for work. Marshall was then ccentric, and is said to have been exceedngly stubborn. He obtained immedia employment from Captain Sutter, and proved an ingenious mechanic, making nimself quite useful in the construction of chairs, tables and all those articles of household furniture so much needed in a new settlement. Lumber was in great demand among the settlers of the Sacramento valley, their number having been considerably augmented by the arrival of Mormons and others from beyond the mountains. Marshall being a lumberman, and competent to manage the enterprise, he was dispatched by Captain Sutter, with an Indian guide and interpreter, to the mountains, in May, 1847, to select a site for a sawmil shall returned and reported that he had found a good location, on the south fork of the American river, forty miles east of the fort, at a point called by the Indians Culoo-ma which means "beautiful vale" and THE BEAUTIFUL LITTLE TOWN OF COLOMA. The water power was sufficient, pine rees plentiful, and a Mexican cart could pass without difficulty between the fort and the proposed site of the sawmill. Some delay occurred, and it was not until August, 1847, that Captain Sutter finally arranged with Marshall to superintend the erection and running of the sawmill. The mill was completed in January, 1848, and they had just commenced sawing, when, on the night of February 2, 1848, Marshall appeared at Sutter's Fort, his horse in a foam and himself presenting a singular appearance-all bespattered with mud and laboring under an extraordinary degree of excitement. He immediately requested Captain Sutter to go with him into a room Marshall asked Captain Sutter if he was sure they would not be disturbed, and desired that the door might be locked. Caphis actions, and began to think it bazard who acted so strangely. Marshall took from his pocket a pouch, from which he poured upon the table

ABOUT AN OUNCE OF YELLOW GRAINS Of metal which he thought would prove to be gold. Marshall said that in the morning, the water being shut off from the mill race, be discovered in passing through the race, shining particles here and there on the bottom. On examination he found them to be of metallic substance, and the thought flashed over him that they might be gold. Marshall said that the laborers— white and Indian—had picked up some of could be collected.

Captain Sutter was quite incredulous as to these particles being gold, but happening to have a bottle of nitric acid among his stores, he applied the test, and, true enough, the yellow grains proved to be pure gold. The great discovery was made. View these men as they sit at the hour of midnight in the dimly lighted room of that adobe fort, the other side of the world to everybody but themselves.

ISOLATED, ALL UNKNOWING AND UNKNOWN One an educated, polished gentleman from Europe, the other a plain, honest me-chanic from the United States. Regard them as they examine those little yellow grains and learn that they are gold. The action of no King on his throne, no warrior at the head of his army, no statesman or legislative body that ever existed, was ore conducive to events of the highest mport to the human race than was that of these two humble, private individuals when they sat at the mid-night hour, secluded and lonely in that then remote country, and discovered they were handling gold. A singular co-incidence was the fact that, on the very day—perhaps the very moment—that Marshall discovered the grains of gold in the foothills of El Dorado, the treaty that closed the Mexican war and gave us California was signed in the City of Mexico.

The acquisition of California and the discovery of gold are events beyond the range of man's calculation in their influence on the destiny of the great American Republic.

Is an oft-repeated expression, and in this instance a truism. Marshall lived a poor man, and died in abject want and poverty.

Not long since be was found dead in his cabin near the town of Kelsey, some five miles from Coloma. He had been dead some time, there was nothing in his cabin to eat, and it is thought by some that this distinguished rights are the head been reto eat, and it is thought by some that this distinguished pioneer, who had been refused a small pittance from the California Legislature, had actually died of starvation. It seems incredible that the rich and great State of California, the generous instincts and liberal views of whose people never allows them to do anything of a periodic. allow them to do anything of a patriotic, honorable and just character on a small scale, could see their great pioneer pass from earth unknown, unhonored, and in from earth unknown, unhonored, and in want—could see the sun which illumined a life so genial and good; a life that has yielded, through hardship, toil and courageous exposure, such immense national benefit, go down in penury, sorrow and gloom. His remains quietly sleep in the little graveyard in the "beautiful vale" where he made the discovery that electrified the world 39 years ago.

WHEN IT CAME TO VOTING, However, the Republicans stuck closely to their ticket, and, Gregory drawing largely upon the Democratic vote, he was successful by a great majority. There were two prominent factors in the contest tending to defeat Mr. Brown, aside from the fact that he is sick, and could scarcely be out in a carriage for a short time. The sporting element—the "boys"—voted against him almost to a man, because of what he had said and done against their interests; the people opposed to gambling also voted against him, their reason being that he had not maintained to the end his opposition to the gamblers, but had for months looked they have been running behind this winter.

Russian Handloom Crash.

USSIA Crash is the coarsest of linens. We are only able to get it now and then. Little wonder when one considers where and how it is made. It is said that in those parts of Russia where flax is grown every house has its oom. Everyone weaves-lord, wife children. When one is tired another takes it up-then another. The loom is never idle. You can almost see in the crash the work of the different people. After weaving it is laid on the ground, perhaps for months, to bleach. When the family are in need of money they cut off so many yards and sell at neighboring marts, from whence it finds its way all over the world. Russia Linen is dark, uneven and streaky. But it is a great deal better than it looks. It will stand the roughest usage. Nothing that machine weaving has

Transportation and Markets.

Cheap and rapid transportation is of the utmost importance to those who are both producers and consumers. It cheapens all that he buysand enhances the price of all he produces. The "LANGFORD COLONY" is most advantageously situated in this respect. It is between two railroads that both connect with steamboats that run from the Sacramento and San Joaquin points to the Golden Gate. This gives the cheap-est freight and passenger rates for the distance in this Coast. The markets for all kinds of pro-ducis are good. The Canneries. Wineries and ducts are good. The Canneries, Wineries and Fruit Dealers take all the Fruit raised, at highly remunerative prices. Sidney is a rich bay with black points, 15 hands zicches high. Although only 6 years old he has two-year old colts which, as rearlings with from six to eight weeks' handling, have showed one-quarter in 39 seconds, one-half in 1:20. I have sold one of his yearlings for $1,800, and refused $5,200 for three others. This tells more about his qualities as a stock horse than a page of eulogium. His breeding is so royal that it speaks for itself. Anybody wishing his tabulated pedigree will receive if free of charge on application, and I will be glad to show his produce to any person desirous of seeing them. I will this year stand SIDNEY at the very low fee of $75, with trivilege of return if mares don't prove in foal, providing I shall own the horse next year.
